FULL BIO

Sabrina Sullivan is a corporate futurist, strategist and advisor with more than 15 years of experience driving transformation across Fortune 500 companies, government, higher education, nonprofits, and high-growth ventures. She is recognized for her ability to bridge the abstract world of future possibilities with the practical work of building strategies that deliver lasting impact.

Her career includes leading one of Deloitte's flagship innovation programs, shaping transformation initiatives in higher education, and advising global organizations such as Ford Motor Company and Foresight Factory. She has also launched ventures ranging from a sustainable finance startup to a SaaS platform designed to measure and improve innovation practice. This mix of corporate, public sector and entrepreneurial experience allows her to help leaders and organizations anticipate change, build institutional agility, and seize opportunities with confidence.

Sabrina co-created Leaders for Humanity, a leadership tool and game that challenges assumptions and sparks bold thinking in times of complexity. Known for her ability to blend foresight with strategy, she works with individuals, companies and ecosystems to generate future-ready products, programs and cultures that strengthen resilience and growth.

Her global perspective is further complemented by collaborations with Platform, TED, Singularity University, the US State Department, and a wide range of institutes, incubators and accelerators around the world.

SIGNATURE KEYNOTESWhat If...Building Future-Ready Organizations.

The future of work is not arriving someday. It is being rehearsed in every choice organizations make today. In this keynote, corporate futurist Sabrina Sullivan moves past the clichés of automation, hybrid models, and generational shifts to focus on what really matters: how leaders and teams practice the future before it arrives.

Drawing on her experience advising Fortune 500s, governments, and fast growing ventures, Sabrina reveals how forward looking organizations use foresight not as prediction but as preparation. They create space to stretch assumptions, explore “what if” scenarios, and build rituals that strengthen agility and imagination across every level of the business.

Instead of chasing stability or reacting to the latest disruption, Sabrina shows how leaders can turn uncertainty into a strategic advantage. Through emerging signals, provocative scenarios, and practical leadership tools, she equips audiences with a mindset and methods to make their organizations more adaptive, innovative, and human centered.

Audiences leave with fresh clarity about the forces reshaping work and with the courage and curiosity to start practicing the future today.
